

Low SAPS oils minimise deposits in diesel particle filters

Low SAPS means that the oil has a very low content of Sulfated Ash (SA), Phosphorus (P) and Sulphur (S).

If the content of these substances is too high, the performance of diesel particle filters can be reduced and they can become blocked. Special techniques burn the particles that have collected in the filter.

Nevertheless a filter is not completely clean on this "Regeneration" and should be changed periodically according to the recommendations of vehicle manufacturers.

Low SAPS motor oils optimise the protection of particle filters.
